THE HYGEIAN THEORY OF DISEASES, AND GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR THE USE OF MORRISON'S UNIVERSAL MEDICINES.
Of the British College of Health, London
The leading Principles of the Hygeian or Morrison's Theory of Diseases are contained in the following Propositions:
1. The vital principle is contained in the blood.
2. Every thing in the body is derived from the blood.
3. All diseases arise from the impurity in the blood.
From the blood all the solids are derived, and nourished—all the other fluids are secreted—and all the substances appropriated to repair the injuries done to the body are supplied. The rudiment of the future heart (and the circulating system) it is well known, precedes the formation of other parts of the body, and is visible for some time before any trace of the brain can be distinguished.
As the blood is the builder up of the body and source of general health, so it is also of universal diseases; that being fluid while circulating in the body, it is more uniform in its appearance than any of the solid parts, which accounts for the difficulty of detecting any foreign or morbid matter which may be circulating with it. The mucus of fever are harmless to every other part of the system, and only become noxious when they reach the blood. If the blood becomes once impregnated with a peculiar taint it is wonderful to remark the tenacity with which it retains it, though often in a state of inactivity for years, or even generations. Hence all hereditary diseases, consumptions, &c.
Every germ and fibre of every other part, being formed and fed from the blood and all communication to the solids being cut off, except by the circulation, where also can we look to, as the seat of such taints or predispositions for disease, or for the cause of disease itself?
4. Pain and disease have the same origin, and may therefore be considered synonymous terms.
5. Purification by vegetables is the only effectual mode of purifying the blood, and eradicating disease.
It is evident that all these medicines which require preparation in the patient, and give cold if taken in damp or cold weather, such as calomel &c. do not assimilate to the body, and are therefore highly injurious to the constitution, and suppress and stifle new qualities, when it is necessary to purify. They may be taken with advantage in any weather, or at any time of the year.
The simple theory—simple because true—contained in these five propositions was first promulgated by Mr. Morrison, the Hygeist, in 1823; and his well-merited medicines were taken with unparalleled success. Since that time numerous imitations have arisen in America as well as in Europe, who style themselves Hygeists, and pretend to treat diseases on Hygeian principles, and with "Universal Vegetable Medicines."

The Medicines of the British College of Health cure all diseases which admit of cure.
1. They remove from the stomach, liver and intestines—the blood making organs—all obstructions to the due performance of their healthy functions.
2. They purify the blood, by increasing its various excretions, and prevent disease by building the body successfully, to resist the predisposing exciting causes of disease.
3. They increase the action of the absorbents, by which all morbid growths are taken into the circulation and afterwards expelled from the body.
4. They restore the regularity of those processes upon which the formation and circulation of the blood depend.
Thus are the only medicines known in which small doses have a powerful and beneficial effect; and yet, of which, in extreme cases, such very large doses may be administered fearlessly and with greatly increased advantage to the patient.
None genuine unless signed by PANGBORN & BRINSMAID, State Agents.

NOTICE
TO RHEUMATIC INVALIDS
PERSONS suffering under Rheumatism, if taken in time, are respectfully assured, that they can obtain of the proprietor and his agents a safe and admirable remedy for RHEUMATISM, however obstinate the disorder may be, and in all its different stages.
DR. J. M.'S
Rheumatic Liment!
will afford immediate relief to the patient, and has sometimes been attended with such extraordinary success as to cure the most distressing Rheumatism in twenty-four hours, even when of years standing.
This highly valuable Liment is recommended with a confidence founded on the experience of many years, not only as a cure for that excruciating disease, but as an excellent application for STIFFNESS OF THE JOINTS, NUMBNESS, SPRAINS, CHLAIMS, &c.
Among a mass of testimony in favour of the success of the Liment, as a thorough remedy for RHEUMATISM, the proprietor selects the following as presenting genuine instances of its efficacy.
New and surprising cases.

17. A gentleman, Mr. R. of Charlestown (who can be referred to) had been confined to his bed most of the time for a week, suffering most excruciating pain from Rheumatism; after having had recourse to the usual mode of antispasmodics usually resorted to in this complaint, but without benefit; and while in this state of suffering, and in prospect of relief, Mr. Caleb Symmes, who was his neighbour, and who, having to the extraordinary benefit he had himself experienced from its use, recommended the article with such confidence as induced Mr. R. to make use of it, which he did, with the usual success attending its administration, viz: immediate mitigation of pain, relief and cure!

18. An old Revolutionary Officer near Boston, was sorely afflicted for years with rheumatic complaints, especially in his joints and limbs, which were frequently much swollen, could obtain only temporary relief from medical advice, or the use of various remedies, and had despaired of help; when a friend who had witnessed the wonderful effects of this Liment, advised him to make use of it, which he did, with the most happy effect: it reduced the swelling in one night.
This article is considered as superior to every thing else, and is pure, and without any deleterious ingredients, that it is ordered from distant parts of the country.
